AEXUS & SUSTAINABILITY

Established in 2000 and with a team of over 150 staff worldwide, Aexus is the leading tech and software sales and business development company. With offices in Europe, the Americas and Asia Pacific, Aexus assists fast-growing, innovative technology and software companies in all aspects of the commercial process, from proposition development and go-to-market planning to inbound marketing and outbound sales.

One of Aexus' key focus areas is sustainability. According to the Paris 2020 agreement, we have to reduce our global carbon emissions by 40% by 2030 compared to 1990. There are many technical innovative solutions to combat climate change. However, by working alone we are not going to achieve this target. Only by working together we can expedite our impact and realise this reduction in greenhouse emissions. At Aexus we have the know-how and experience to help you accelerate your impact.

Over the past years, Aexus have been working with a variety of vendors that are active in this domain. Solutions range from innovations that help reduce gas emissions by using drones & technology, to AI technology that helps buildings to become self-optimised, thus reducing energy consumption and carbon emissions. In addition, there are solutions for repairing damaged technology and enhancing the circular economy by giving FMCG a second life, to reducing CO2 emissions by optimising machine parks.

Aexus have a team of experienced, driven professionals who are entirely focused on sustainability. We are constantly looking for new, innovative solutions we may work with and that will help accomplish our mission of 'bringing innovation and change to the sustainability sector'.
